Summary: Winner of the Man Booker International Prize, now in paperback: a beautiful, unsettling novel in three acts, about rebellion and taboo, violence and eroticism, and the twisting metamorphosis of a soul

Before the nightmares began, Yeong-hye and her husband lived an ordinary, controlled life. But the dreams—invasive images of blood and brutality—torture her, driving Yeong-hye to purge her mind and renounce eating meat altogether. It's a small act of independence, but it interrupts her marriage and sets into motion an increasingly grotesque...

Summary: A smart, satirical caper of a novel that follows a brokenhearted but resourceful young woman, a famous lost painting, and the legacy of Nazi art thieves, all set in the London art world.

Annie McDee, thirty-one and recovering from the end of a long-term relationship, works as a chef for two sinister art dealers. She's just spent her meager savings on a dusty junk-shop painting for her new (and unsuitable) boyfriend. But when he doesn't show up for his birthday dinner, it becomes hers. And amazingly, the painting speaks—though only we, t...

Summary: From the Man Booker Prize-winning author of The Sea, a new novel about artistic creation and the ways in which we learn to possess one another—and hold on to ourselves.

Equally self-aggrandizing and self-deprecating, Oliver Otway Orme is a painter of some renown and a petty thief (who steals only for pleasure) who has never been caught—until now. The fact that the purloined possession was the wife of the man who was, perhaps, Olly's best friend has compelled him to run away—from his mistress, his home, his wife; from whatever remains of...
